1 flashback

1 Complaints of stagnant curricula, last week's - no - last year's mystery meat and an unending chain of dull weekends are unfounded. Looking back a few years shows phenomenal progress and constant flux. We now have team teaching, "liberal" visitation and hockey puck on a plate. Not only have we come a long way, baby, but we're still on the move. The past, though, is our foundation - the still point in our changing world.

2 health personnel

2 Health personnel - a very general term for very unique people. The Allied Health Sciences encompass Hospital Administrators, Medical Technologists, Physical Therapists, Nursing Anesthesiologists, Radiology Technologists, Dental Hygienists and Occupational Therapists. Each school is relatively small, but they are indispensable members of the total health care team - the goal of MCV.

3 dentists

3 Rumor has it that dentists love to drill little holes, but tremendous controversy surrounded who could legally fill cavities. Law suits were chic in the fall of '75 as dentists refused to pay the school the outstanding bills their patients had accumulated. Other suits concerned authorizing technicians to fill cavities as part of a dental health care team. All was not quiet in the Lyons Building last year.

4 Graduate and/or professional students abound at MCV. The Whatsamatta U senior's dream comes true - his own lab! Grad students infiltrate every school and every department, and help bind MCV together.

4 grad students

5 physicians

5 Everyone has his ideas about med students, but today no one can dispute that they have more guts than practically anyone here. Who else would prepare for a career that demands such exorbitant malpractice insurance? First year students may initially chuckle that "getting in" is the worst part, but seasoned veterans of four years know better . . .

6 nurses

6 Blue nursing uniforms pepper the campus, Joe's, the student center and Jarrett Apartments. Men and women both find MCV an ideal place to pursue nursing careers. The ghost of varicose veins still haunts first year nurses, but Earth-Shoes and instructors have given them reassurance. Misconceptions are constantly replaced with facts as nurses prepare to deal with people: their problems, their psyches, and their personalities.

7 pharmacists

8 wrap-up

7 Dr. Lowenthal's bra kept second year pharmacy students amused, but there weren't many smiles on the seniors. A beefed up curriculum surprised them in their clinical year. Sophomores, as usual, learned to adjust to the idiosyncracies of their professors, and together they all plunged deeply into the LEGAL "drug scene."

8 The varied schools at MCV have little continuity other than a medical education. Physical therapists seldom work with students in medicine, pharmacy or dentistry, and vice versa. A few activities, such as the fall dance at the Arena and intramurals provided slight contact. Even SGA meetings were just fleeting encounters. Parking lots, Joe's and the Skull were gathering spots, but usually each went his own way . . .

Why a flashback?

Better yet, why are we here? We are here because we first stood on the "shoulders" of someone who came before us. We stand on their achievements and contributions. Where we stand today is a tribute to their efforts. In tribute to those on whose "shoulders" we first stood, the 1976 X-Ray is dedicated to our Nation's 200th Anniversary.

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. — We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. — Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. — But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. — The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. — To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world. —

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. —

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. —

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. —

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures. —

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people. —

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within. —

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of lands. —

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers. —

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries. —

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our People, and eat out their substance. —

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our Legislatures. —

He has affected to render the Military independent of, and superior to, the Civil power. —

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: —

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us: —

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: —

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: —

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: —

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury: —

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences —

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: —

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: —

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever. —

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us. —

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our Towns, and destroyed the lives of our people. —

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation. —

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands. —

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. —

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a People. —

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace, Friends. —

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. — And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor. —

THE GREAT AWAKENING 1776-1845

The time . . . July 4, 1776. The place . . . Philadelphia. The Declaration of Independence has just been signed and a new nation is born. Two hundred years and several hundred miles away is the Medical College of Virginia and 1976. As we look to 1776 to see a new nation come into being, a new college that proves to be the parent institution of MCV is founded in a small rural Southside Virginia village, Hampden-Sydney. Many of the founding fathers of our United States were also founding fathers of Hampden Sydney. This small Presbyterian school grew until 1837 when the trustees voted to create a medical department to be located in Richmond, the capital of Virginia and a growing industrial center of the South. So in November 1838, the Medical Department of Hampden-Sydney College opened its doors in the Union Hotel on the corner of 19th and Main Streets in Richmond. In the following years, the institution grew, and by 1845 a permanent home, the Egyptian Building, was completed. The college was a reality, but its most troubled years lay ahead.

Ralph Waldo Emerson
"Concord Hymn"

As the Clouds of War gathered over the nation in the 1840's and 50's and talk of secession, slavery, and states' rights filled the Congress of the United States, the Medical Department of Hampden-Sydney College was waging a rebellion of its own.

With the creation of a new position of physiology and jurisprudence at the Medical Department in 1853 and the appointment by the Hampden-Sydney trustees of a person hostile to the faculty and its wishes, a split took place between the two institutions. In February 1854, the Medical Department of Hampden-Sydney College became the Medical College of Virginia, an independent institution.

As the nation neared the 1860's, the schism between North and South was accentuated by John Brown's raid on Harper's Ferry in 1859. Numerous southern medical students attending northern universities returned to the South and MCV. By 1860, MCV became a state institution.

THE CLOUDS OF

In 1861 eleven southern states had seceded, the first shots of the war had been fired at Fort Sumter, and Richmond was the capital of the Confederate States of America. The College found itself playing an important role in educating surgeons for the Confederacy and caring for the wounded and sick personnel. As the number of wounded grew larger and the war drew closer, makeshift hospitals sprang up all over Richmond. Drugs became scarce and expensive. The situation was desperate.

With the fall of Petersburg in April 1865, Richmond was evacuated and sections of the city were burned by fleeing citizens to keep arms and supplies from falling into Union hands. After the surrender at Appomattox, Richmond was occupied by Federal troops, and the job of Reconstruction begun. MCV was saved from financial troubles by the General Assembly in 1866. Enrollment fell in the late 1860's, but by the 1870's the college was ready to begin its "Era of Expansion."

EXPANSION

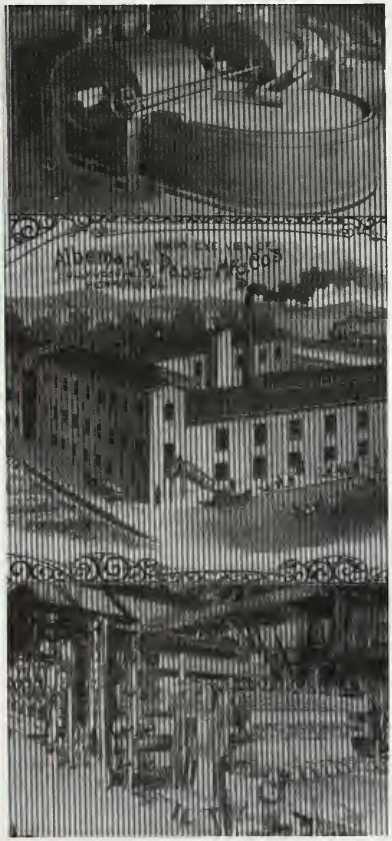
VIRGINIA HOSPITAL'S NEW AMBULANCE

With the war over, the U.S. began its era of expansion. East met West as railroads linked the Establishment East with the western frontier. Industrialization began to mushroom, "cooperates," "monopolies," and "labor unions" became household words. The U.S. in this time became fascinated with the inventions by Bell, Edison and others. In this atmosphere of growth, the Medical College of Virginia began to expand also.

In 1893, a second medical school opened, the University College of Medicine; 1895 the School of Nursing was added and in 1898 the schools of Dentistry and Pharmacy were founded. The University College of Medicine and the Medical College of Virginia were consolidated in 1913 and the MCV name retained.



As WW I began, MCV once again provided physicians to the armed forces serving throughout the world where men in U.S. uniforms were fighting. When the great influenza outbreak hit the U.S. in 1918, junior and senior medical students helped the State Health Department fill the demand for physicians. Classes were even suspended for some time.

The Depression hit MCV hard but out of those dismal times came a face-lift that MCV is still undergoing today.

THE CHANGING FACE OF MCV 1935-1976

As World War II neared, the physical face of MCV began to change. By 1941 the A. D. Williams Memorial Clinic and the 18 story main MCV Hospital were completed. With WWII, MCV once again provided the armed forces with surgeons, nurses, physicians and all other forms of health care. The 1950's brought an expanded building program with the Wood Memorial Building for Dentistry and the E. G. Williams Hospital being built.

The 1960's and the space age projected MCV into a national role as a leading Medical Center. MCV led the way in organ transplant, cancer research and heart transplant successes. It now boasts the largest medical education building in the Southeast, Sanger Hall.

Merger was the name of the game in 1968 as the General Assembly of Virginia combined Richmond Professional Institute with MCV and brought Virginia Commonwealth University into being. As a major urban university, doors have opened wide to provide the best educational opportunities for people of all races and nationalities.

Amidst a world of changing values and ideas, history gives way to the reality of the present as we stand face to face with 1976.

3 dentists

Emphasis on the prevention of dental disease is in the foreground of the School of Dentistry. It's origins go back to 1893 as the University College of Medicine opened with a dental department. It was not until 1913 that the MCV School of Dentistry was on its own. Programs are now offered for dental students, grad students, and auxiliary personnel, as well as the degree of doctor of dental surgery.

Students come from varied backgrounds, but quickly find themselves reduced to the common denominator the social security number on the computer print out. After the humbling first year, students see the opportunities and foresight in their curriculum which far overrides any didactic pettiness. There is a deemphasis on traditional lectures, with concurrent emphasis on reading, seminars, and self study aids.

Diagnostic skills, periodontal medicine, and maxillo-facial prosthesis construction are becoming increasingly critical. Consequently the philosophy as well as information offered to dental students is keeping pace with the changing world.

Many of the perceptions concerning dentistry with which I started dental school have had to be modified through the past four years. This has come about in part by the constantly changing role that the dentist plays as a MEMBER of the health team. The graduate dentist of today has been trained to be more of a physician of the oral cavity, and thus is more aware of the need for comprehensive care of the patient's ills (both physical and mental) rather than "zooming in" on the teeth and ignoring the patient attached to them. Therefore, a dentist is no longer just a molar mechanic but a diagnostician of the oral cavity.

Another reason for having to modify my perception of dentistry is found in the educational process that we go through. Despite the beliefs of many of the older dentists, I believe the pressure and tension encountered in dental school is as great, if not greater than ever before. The highly competitive nature of today's dental student combined with the ever changing minimum expectations, deadlines, and high standards imposed on the student by the school for graduation causes a high level of anxiety which I believe is usually handled very well.

The transition from college student to dentist has not only been an educational experience but has also involved an emotional and psychological growth. The ability to handle the aforementioned pressure and tension is an example. Another situation requiring considerable emotional growth is one imposed on the dental student by some of the professors who feel that it is necessary to treat a twenty-five year old adult like a small child and to obey his every command without question or explanation. This is a difficult position to be in at best. Probably the greatest change that is experienced by the dental student is that of learning to truly care about the well-being of his or her patients.

In spite of the trials and tribulations experienced during the past four years, or perhaps because of them, I am looking forward with great anticipation to my future career in dentistry. It is a good profession and one that can offer a constant challenge if only a person will accept it. One word of warning to my fellow graduates: Do not become so dogmatic to your own way of doing things that you cannot accept new and better ways. Do not lose sight of what you thought of those few professors who would not let you try something new because it was not the established way. Regardless of the acceptability or effectiveness of the procedure in question, always keep an open mind to the future and progress.

Graduate programs exist in Schools of Nursing, Pharmacy, X Allied Health Programs, and in the Department of Pathology. Basic medical sciences include anatomy, biochemistry, biometry, biophysics, microbiology, pharmacology, physiology, and human genetics. We represent over graduate students, with over 120 in the eight basic sciences departments. Therefore, graduate studies encompass a wide range of research interests and a variety of course work. The program of research is planned jointly by the student and his advisory committee, and may be highly individualized according to the needs and goals of the student.

Although we represent diverse interests we all place a major emphasis on research. Excellence in graduate student research is promoted each Spring by an annual Honor's Day, which recognizes students with significant research in the categories of proposed research, Ph.D. thesis, or M.S. thesis.

Graduate studies are meshed into all aspects of Health professions at MCV. All departments in the school of Basic Sciences provide instruction in their disciplines for students in other schools on the MCV campus. Our basic science department, with a good balance of faculty, postdoctoral, and graduate students, make it possible to provide quality instruction for health professional schools and maintain strong research M.S. and Ph.D. programs: including combined M.S., Ph.D., M.D., or D.D.S. programs.

Richard Talks, Turkey

Continuing the X-RAY policy of interviewing new and not so new students, this visit is with Richard Fowler, a first year graduate student. Mr. Fowler obtained his B.S. degree from Roanoke College where he majored in chemistry and biology.

X-Ray: Mr. Fowler, may I call you Richard?
R.F.: Yes.
X-Ray: Why did you decide to go to graduate school at MCV?
R.F.: It was a hot summer night last year while I was sitting under my Bow tree* drinking a six-pack of beer. The more beer I drank, the more enlightened I became. It was at this moment that my role in the greater scheme of things was laid before me. That's why I'm at MCV today.
X-Ray: That's very interesting. What brand of beer were you drinking?
R.F.: I forget.
X-Ray: What do you think of MCV now?
R.F.: Since my brief exposure to the training of personnel in the health sciences, it seems a miracle that people are alive today. If you want to stay healthy, stay away from hospitals. If you get sick, stay at home.
X-Ray: Thanks, I'll try to remember that, however, perhaps you can tell me more about your research.
R.F.: Using methods little more sophisticated than Pasteur, I will solve the mysteries of life.
X-Ray: Don't you feel that's a rather ambitious goal?
R.F.: Yes, but I'm a hard worker.
X-Ray: Could you elaborate?
R.F.: Well, the day I was born, I thought I would just lay around the house and maybe watch a little TV. About that time, my mother came in and put me to work. I've been a diligent worker ever since.
X-Ray: Can you comment on your progress to date?
R.F.: Aside from rolling back the frontiers of science, it's off like a herd of turtles.
X-Ray: You sound a bit discouraged. Am I misinterpreting you?
R.F.: Oh, no. I am discouraged.
X-Ray: Well, have you found the available social life compensatory?
R.F.: Huh?
X-Ray: Well. Thank you Richard, and best wishes in your research.
R.F.: You're welcome.

Chuck — One Up On VCU

Although the Medical College of Virginia has been part of Virginia Commonwealth University for almost eight years, it amazes me that there are still those who question MCV's identity. At the time of the merger MCV had been established for 130 years and within the VCU structure, MCV had been designated as one of the two separate divisions that made up the university. Our university president at that time felt we should forget this background overnight. His insistence upon this point left him with many influential enemies until he obtained "asylum in Illinois".

Other universities seem to have little or no problem with identity. The University of Richmond is a good example. If a student says that he or she goes to Westhampton or to T.C. Williams Law School, no one is upset that they did not mention that their college is part of the University of Richmond. This is understood.

On the other hand if a student from this campus says that he or she goes to MCV, the student is branded as a separatist. Why isn't it logical to assume that an MCV student is also a VCU student? Hopefully the new university understands this, and does not feel threatened by those who associate themselves with the three initials - MCV. This is done for clarity and simplicity if for no other reason. It is not difficult to grow tired of telling people you are a graduate student in the Department of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutics at the Medical College of Virginia, Health Science Division of Virginia Commonwealth University.

An impetus of the medical school today is to become as clinically well trained as possible, and yet not compromise the warmth of personal care. A barrage of classes in the first two years phases quickly into nearly total patient and hospital contact by graduation.

Sanity seems to be ephemeral at times, but all survive. Diet is forgone with a hot dog on the corner. Dates seem to be a long ago memory and families play second fiddle to MCV, but somehow med students manage. It's all part of the preparation of constantly being on the move, and being responsible for others. They know it won't end after these four years.

6 nurses

The original reasons supporting the decisions each nursing student made upon entering MCV seem to become submerged in the subsequent work load and inevitably forgotten as a diligent young student becomes involved in patient care; incorporating the dynamics of the situation from a holistic viewpoint, including nursing implications, with well documented rationale for actions, and assessing needs in order of priorities. These, then become embodied in the formation of a universal care plan:

1) allow patient to verbalize his feelings.
2) listen to patient and reflect his feelings back to him.
3) help patient through problem solving process.
4) include the family.
5) be aware of nurses feelings
6) turn, cough, and deep breath

"At this point in time" one feels totally inadequate in his/her abilities to utilize these vast quantities of knowledge thrust before us, although the possibility of reflecting may prove valuable in future situations. Terminating with MCV will produce far less separation anxiety than is commonly seen in these cases. But really . . . the apprehension of leaving MCV and starting as a real nurse will become the proving ground for how much we really did learn and how much of nursing and MCV really did become a part of us over the past two years. The value of our experience, here, will probably exhibit itself throughout our careers and life as invaluable.

Nurses Provide Full Term Care

7 pharmacists

The Council of Stud- no proved to be one of the most remarkable change- in the School of Pharmacy in '76. Headed by Ken Abernathy and Syndie Robertson, pharmacy students made significant progress toward major updates in the curriculum. For one of the first times in several years, students saw proof that they indeed had the power to promote change.

Mysterious "frog spirits" had the faculty guessing, as they deposited poetic offerings throughout McGuire. Seniors encountered new territory during clerkships as they scattered throughout Virginia. Dr. Luann Godley, clerkship coordinator, gathered the flock periodically to receive reports and rebrief the students. May provided a culmination to the three years of instruction with graduation. But graduation hysteria was muted by the call of the books. State Board Examinations still lay ahead.

Seems like yesterday we sat in a hot and sticky L-4 listening to Weaver, Lowenthal, and Co. blow gas. Wow, we've come a long way from the class that couldn't chew gum and triturate at the same time. For three years they told us how pharmacists think and act. Now the umbilicus is cut: yesterday is gone; and we're on our own. P-76! In time we'll run with the best of them.

Fred On Pharmacy School

Pharmacy school is everything I thought it would be - a pill that is hard to swallow. No, not really. The transition to a professional school has not been too difficult. In fact I'm feeling at home now. There is plenty of work to do, but also plenty of entertainment. It's difficult to choose between them. Studying is important, but the classmates are my associates for life and exclusive, continual studying leaves little time to develop them. In time, I'm sure to find the right balance.

8 wrap-up

Eight ways to see MCV? No, of course not. Roughly 2000 students attend this campus, plus the administration and faculty, so in reality, there are many ways to see MCV. While to some MCV is culturing agar plates, to others it is making rounds at North Hospital, punching a set of capsules, or preparing a porcelain crown. Really, when one stops to think about it, there are as many ways to see MCV as there are people.

Administration 75-76

A Year of Problems, Solved and Unsolved

SGA Asserts Leverage

Under the leadership of Paul Wheeler - President, Ron Abernathy - Vice-President, Chris Colenda - Secretary; Carol Pratt - Treasurer, the MCV Student Government Association began the task of solving student problems, sponsoring social activities, and providing services.

The year began with an orientation for new students and a huge back-to-school picnic at Larrick, complete with food, music and beer. For the culturally inclined, the SGA footed half the bill for tickets to the Richmond Symphony and the Virginia Museum plays. September budget meetings brought the usual lengthy meetings and long winded speeches. Out of the chaos came appropriations for Student Directory, money to Coach Brockwell for athletic programs at the gym, an increased X-Ray budget, and a vastly expanded social budget and calendar.

With the creation of the first social committee MCV has seen in years, Ron Abernathy and committee members launched an expanded social program and activities. The fall dance at the Arena accommodated over 1750 people and to the surprise of everyone, Chubby Checker proved that the "Twist" and "Rock 'n Roll" is at home in the 1970's. Two hardy Friday afternoon beer blasts enlivened the spirits of many a MCV student as a total of twenty-five kegs were consumed. A toned down Winter dance at the Mosque and a high spirited spring picnic, a barbecue, at Chesterfield Fair Grounds rounded out the social calendar.

It was also a year of problems and problem solving. Deception, lack of cooperation, and confusion on the part of the Administration proved to be temporary stumbling blocks to the student members of the Parking Committee. After many harsh words, towed cars, and heated meetings, the Parking Committee hammered out a new parking proposal to help solve student parking. With the threat of a SGA sponsored law suit hanging over its head, the Dental School Administration was forced to seek various solutions to the problem of student payment of delinquent patient bills. As these and other problems presented themselves, the Council met them head on and sought fair and logical solutions.

Throughout the year, the SGA strived to meet the needs of MCV students. Sometimes success prevailed, and other times it did not. Still, an honest effort was made and credit goes to the hard work of the officers and each member of SGA council.

At REVCO, it's the pharmacist up front that counts

The major and basic difference between Revco's 762 stores and ordinary drug stores is the Company's marked emphasis on its prescription business. Revco pharmacists now fill prescriptions at the rate of more than 28 million a year.

Obviously, the operation of high-volume prescription stores such as Revco's and the simultaneous maintenance of high professional standards requires the services of registered pharmacists of high proficiency and character.

That's why when we say, "at Revco, it's the pharmacist up front that counts," we mean it! Of course, if in addition to working in a highly professional environment, you're interested in the more mundane matters such as . . .

- Revco's training program for interns is the most outstanding in the profession
- Revco offers a stock participation retirement plan that provides security and financial growth
- Revco's rapid growth and continuous expansion program offers many opportunities for advancement to management positions

. . . Then, you should definitely explore your future with Revco. If you are interested in a position in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Arizona, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, Florida, South Carolina, Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, Indiana, or Alabama, then write:

COLOPHON

The 1810 copies of the X-Ray were printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. The sales representative was Dan DeFalco; in-plant consultant was Mrs. Nancy Jones.

The 232 pages are printed on Warren 80 lb. Matte paper while the cover, designed by Kris Cole and Emelyn Mills, is offset lithography. The body type for the entire book is litho, set in 12 pt. for body, and 8 pt. for identifications and index. Headlines for the eight sections are as follows: "flashback" - optima; "health professionals" - times roman italic; "dentists" - x vogue bold; "graduate students" - bodoni bold; "physicians" - melior; "nurses" - futura book; "pharmacists" - impact italic; and "wrap-up" - vogue bold italic.

Professional photographers were Robert Llewellyn and Larry Webster.

About this book

The why's are not important. It's over. We've learned our lessons. Missed deadlines are a headache, and trying to catch up is even worse. Time closes in; pictures pile up unidentified; layouts are drawn and redrawn; biopharmaceutics problems go unworked while micro questions are left to answer the night before the exam; sleep is lost, and nerves and patience become frayed, thin. But never again! The book is finished, published, and out. So let's talk about it.

Early fall discussion led us into theme problems. Each possible theme just did not fit for the entire school. MCV is too diverse; one story did not tell it all. Dental Hygiene has its own story, as does medical technology, physical therapy, and pharmacy.

So what do we do? We have eight themes and each one tells its own story. And that is just what we published . . . eight books inside one cover to make eight ways to see MCV!

Having accomplished that much, we went one step further. Each section was to be a different color, design, and heading style. With so much diversity we needed some continuity to unify the book. All heads within a section are the same type face. Body copy for the entire book is the same style and size, all justified to the gutter. It was with these specifications that we went to work to produce the 1976 X-RAY.

The staff extends regrets to all those students not portrayed in the book. Unidentified pictures were the major stumbling block for us this year. While classmates were sometimes helpful, they did not always know everyone in the entire class. Failure to appear in the book certainly does not diminish anyone's importance at MCV, for it is through all of us that MCV maintains itself. Our thanks go to all who helped to put the book together. Without that help, this book could not have ever been finished.

Our search for knowledge has drawn us together at MCV, but only for a short time . . . We then each go our separate ways.
